

WITH FLAGS AND DRUMS.

The Workers Who Parade on Monday.

Every Section of Labor's Army Rallying at the Call of Their Leaders.

Novel Features of the Procession— Cigars for the Crowd.

At a meeting of the committee on parade of the Typographical Union, last evening, it was decided to make Court square the place of assembling on the morning of Labor day. The chapels of all the book and job offices without exception will parade. With the wholesale turning out of the newspaper men, there will probably be 900 men in line. At least two bands and an equal number of drum corps will furnish music, and some chapels are seriously considering the addition of others. A number of barouches have been engaged for ladies, invited guests and superannuated members. The preparations are being pushed forward energetically and the committeemen are doing all that can be done to further the success of the parade. The president of the union has issued the following circular:

BOSTON, August 30, 1886.

To the members of the Boston Typographical Union

By vote of the union at its last regular meeting it was decided to take part in the parade and labor demonstration, Monday, September 6. A committee, with full power, was appointed to carry out the arrangements. While there is a diversity of opinion as to the desirability of taking part in the parade, the action of the union should be regarded as the "will of the majority" until reversed, and it therefore becomes the duty of every member to see that Typographical Union 13 be not exposed to ridicule in this connection. Notwithstanding the fact that the time of the parade is fixed at an inconvenient hour for many of our members, there is still a large number who can take part with little trouble, and such members should aid the committee to the best of their ability. The other organizations taking part look to the printers to distinguish themselves, and the demonstration may have a good effect if heartily concurred in and properly conducted.

Each office should communicate through its chairman with the secretary of the committee, stating whether it will parade or not, and, if taking part, whether the office will be represented as a chapel or otherwise.

Gentlemen, the credit of success or the stigma of failure rests with you individually.

Respectfully,

JAMES PYN, President T. U. 13.

JOHN DOUGLASS, Secretary.

The secretary of the committee will issue immediately Circular No. 2, in which full information and details will be given. THE GLOBE chapel will have a beautiful banner, the gift of Colonel Taylor. The Advertiser chapel will employ a drum corps, and will parade with an elegant banner. Returns from the Post indicate that its chapel will turn out to a man, also with a banner. From Rockwell & Churchill's comes the news that a drum corps is engaged to play for their chapel, and that the banner will be a fine one. The Wright & Potter Printing Company is not far behind, and its banner will be a noticeable one. Rand & Avery will shut down the office, and the chapel will parade in good style, while the office of Alfred Mudge & Son will also be represented in the procession. The Pressmen's and Feeders' Unions are fully determined to make their branch of the business well represented, and will fall into line to a man. Stereotypers, book-binders and lithographers from all over the city will parade.

There will be many notable features in the parade. The bakers will turn out in their white clothes and caps, with a bunch of wheat tied by a red ribbon pinned on their breasts. The cigarmakers will have a wagon with two benches, at which cigarmakers will be making cigars to toss out to the crowd, while their union label will be printed on canvas stretched on the side of the wagon. The chief marshal said yesterday that some of the city newspapers would introduce special features. The pig which is to be greased and chased is to have a royal throne, surmounted by a stout cage, decorated with red, white and blue cloth.

The curriers, cab makers, mill hands, finishers and upholsterers have voted to parade in a body. The committee having charge of the music will meet early Monday morning in New Era Hall, 176 Tremont street.

The carriage makers' committee on parade held an enthusiastic meeting at 176 Tremont street last evening, and reported large accessions to their ranks. They will turn out 250 men, headed by the Boston City band. The following firms are favorable to closing for the day: F. F. French, Joseph Pray, Hiram Nash and R. C. Knowles.

At the regular meeting of the Journoymen Plumbers' Union, held last evening, it was unanimously voted to take part in the parade. There will be a special meeting held Sunday, September 5, at 176 Tremont street; all members are requested to attend.

For the plumbers' convention at Chicago, Monday, John Ford and Nicholas J. Kelly were appointed delegates.

The prizes, on exhibition at W. L. Douglass' shoe store on Washington street, opposite Essex, make quite a display.
